Courses Given

In order to acquaint the high school students of Washington with the advantages and opportunities of the George Washington University, "the city college of Washington," the University Hatchet, with the help of the University authorities, is issuing this special high school edition.

Some high school students may not realize that in the heart of the capital city there is a university of the highest standing with nine departments, offering a large variety of courses, taught by a faculty of 252 instructors, and in which are registered 2,194 students. Invitation Extended to Students To Visit University

The high school student who desires to go to college should look into possibilities at George Washington University personally. He will be welcomed to the buildings, told of the work and activities, and every dean will be glad to help him plan his course.

George Washington University can satisfy nearly any longing for higher education that exists.

While its buildings do not possess the marble fronts and ivy walls of many other great institutions, it is well equipped to do its work. Government Experts Give Time To University

In addition to a full-time faculty composed of men of national reputation, it has secured the part-time services of many government experts, who control government scientific activity. (Continued on page 4)

ARTILLERY WANTS MEN

Expect Service And Wage
Recruiting Campaign

The G. W. U. Coast Artillery Company is waging a vigorous recruiting campaign, and has thrown open its ranks to outside men of high caliber. High school students over eighteen years of age and others who can qualify will be accepted if they can pass the tests required.

The company had 75 men on last Monday. It is limited to 109, and the officers wish to fill the rolls with the best material possible before the company is called out.

It is practically certain that the company will be called out next week and after the company passes under federal control enlistment will then be impossible, as the law provides that all shall enlist in the regular army thereafter.

"Don't wait until they drag you into the army," urge the recruiting officers at the new recruiting station opened at 932 F street Wednesday morning. "Join the Coast Artillery, in which non-commissioned rank is easy to obtain, and advancement sure to be rapid."

"As a man under 21 is not eligible for the Officers' Reserve Corps," said First Lieut. Howard W. Hodgkins, "the Coast Artillery Company offers him the best chance for promotion. Men with a knowledge of large artillery are scarce and in demand. There will be many opportunities open to the man with a practical training in gunnery."

21 PROFS. IN "WHO'S WHO"

Twenty-nine members of the Arts and Sciences faculty rank as full professors, and of this number 21 are to be found in "Who's Who in America." This record is unique and testifies to the scientific and literary prominence of the faculty.

The varsity debating team met and vanquished the team of Washington and Jefferson University last Thursday night at the Public Library, in a debate on universal military service. The George Washington team, consisting of W. E. Kemp, T. L. Smith, and H. S. Taylor, upheld the affirmative. This is the second debate and victory of the year.

Judges were William J. Harris, vice chairman of the Federal Trade Commission; Francis Walker, chairman of the advisory economic board of the Federal Trade Commission, and James I. Parker, former chief clerk of the Department of the Interior. President Stockton presided.

Last night the team argued for universal military training against the University of Pittsburgh team, but the Hatchet is in the mails too early to announce results.

17 MEDICS JOIN NAVY; SUMMER WORK PROPOSED

Juniors May Start Senior Work in June—Professors in Medical Reserve Corps

Seventeen seniors of the Medical School have taken their final examinations and will soon be commissioned as Assistant Surgeons in the United States Navy, as a result of the war.

Each of these men has made an average of 85 per cent or over in his four years of study and will have only to pass the physical examination in order to receive his commission. They will be sent to the Naval Medical School on May 1 to receive a few months of training before being detailed to active service.

A special certificate of graduation will be given these men, for they must be graduates of a medical school before they can enter the Naval School. They will not receive their diplomas from G. W. until June because of a rule which prohibits a medical student from receiving a diploma until he has attended a medical school four years of eight months each.

These seniors are: V. M. Brian, R. H. Davis, D. J. Dickerson, O. G. Dowling, W. T. Gill, B. Groesbeck, C. G. Hines, J. E. Houghton, G. M. Kennedy, J. T. Mann, W. O. Manning, L. E. Otis, L. E. Mueller, R. C. Saterlee, F. G. Speidel, R. B. Miller and J. R. Villamil.

Summer Medical Work

Plans are under way to have the present junior Medical class to start their senior work immediately after the close of this term in June, and thus be graduated three or four months earlier. To be available for war service. Dean Borden has made this recommendation, and President Stockton has approved. It will be necessary to obtain the consent of the American Medical Association before this can be done, however.

Professors in Reserve Corps
Professors of the Medical School who are members of the Medical Officers' Reserve Corps are expecting a call for active duty at any time

PASS STUDIES RULE

"Flunkers" In Third Of Work
Barred From Activities

Every student must pass in two-thirds of his work in order to represent the University in any student activity, the Faculty Committee on Student Activities decided at its meeting Monday. This rule was made effective immediately, but it is understood that it will not be applied until next year.

The rule adopted reads: "No student shall be eligible to take part in any student activity who is not successfully carrying at least two-thirds of his courses. On report from his instructors or dean that any student is deficient in one-third of his work, such student may be excluded immediately, without previous notice, from further participation in any student activities in which he may be engaged."

The constitution of the Student Council was approved as passed by the Council with the exceptions that all reference to sex of members was eliminated, and provision for nomination for Council elections by a petition of 100 per cent of the tax signers of a department was made.

DESCRIPTIVE STORIES OF INTEREST TO HIGH SCHOOL

CREDIT FOR STUDENTS IN WAR SERVICE

University Liberal To Those Who Leave Early

As much scholastic credit as possible will be given by the faculty to those students who leave the University before the end of this year to accept government service on account of the war. In many cases full credit for the semester's work will be given and in all cases credit for at least the work actually performed will probably be given.

The President's Council on Tuesday passed the following: "That the credit of any student obliged to give up work in accordance with government orders be settled by the dean under whom he is registered in conference with the instructors under whom he is taking courses."

See No Enrollment Decrease
Unless the war assumes a more aggressive attitude on the part of the United States, there will be little loss of registration or students next year, seems to be the general opinion.

"The many new clerks that the government will need, who will attend and the fact that many of our students are in government employ and will not leave the city, will keep our enrollment high," is the opinion of President Stockton.

Overtime Work Forced
Already, to a slight extent, the University has felt the war in the loss of about 10 engineering students who could not attend classes because of overtime work in government departments. Some have been forced to work as late as 6:30 o'clock.

If there is much overtime work, it is possible that the late afternoon classes will have to be switched temporarily into the night.

NO MORE W. U. C. PARTIES

Girls to Do War Work and Furnish Rooms

No more Women's University Club parties this year! The girls are saving their excess change and energy for war work and to furnish the rooms in 2027 G street which the faculty have turned over to the Club as headquarters. According to Miss Fay E. Pierce, president of the club, there are to be reception rooms with comfortable chairs and magazines, a silence room for rest and study, and a kitchenette in which to prepare meals.

A Red Cross box of materials for sheets, pillow cases and other hospital necessities is to be delivered to the rooms as soon as they are furnished, and the girls of the University will spend spare time making these articles.

MORE JOIN AMBULANCE CO.

Dr. Paul Putzki Appointed First Lieutenant

There has been a steady increase of enrollment in No. 5 unit of the Red Cross Ambulance Corps ever since it was organized. Over twenty G. W. men have passed physical examinations.

Applicants for enlistment may be sent to Dr. Bingman, The Kedrick. The enlistment is for two years during school months only. All uniforms and equipment will be supplied by the National Red Cross.

Drills and first aid work will begin immediately, probably on Saturday afternoon.

The latest additions to the corps have been Dr. Paul Putzki as first lieutenant, and Paul W. Vestal acting sergeant first class.

MEDICAL TAX PAYS

Many students benefited from their medical privileges under the activities tax during the past month, according to Dr. Dan L. Borden, University physician. He had 64 office cases and performed three operations, all of which were paid for by the tax insurance.

COLLEGE CONTESTS CANCELLED AT ONCE

No Athletics Next Year Or
This Spring

DIRECTOR MARSHALL RELEASED

Affects Track and Tennis Now—Girls
Can Play Tomorrow—Baseball
League Not Affected—Council
Favors Resumption After War

All intercollegiate athletics, with the single exception of the girl's basketball game tomorrow, was suspended immediately by the action of the Faculty Committee on Student Activities on Monday and the President's Council on Tuesday. This was caused by the state of war with Germany, and is in accord with the action of other large colleges of the country.

The two sports immediately affected are tennis and track, as the girls' basketball season ends tomorrow. The track team had planned to enter the Maryland State College meet and the Penn. relays, while Manager Fadeley of the tennis team had a big schedule mapped out.

Cancels Marshall Contract
This action will also have the effect of suspending athletics for next year, and will cancel the contract of Robert C. Marshall as director of athletics next year. This was made possible by a "war clause" which provided for the present emergency.

Suspension of intercollegiate athletics will not affect the interdepartmental baseball league in which the first of four doubleheaders will be played on the White Lot tomorrow.

Resume After War
The Student Council at its meeting Tuesday night approved the suspension, and voted that athletics be resumed at the end of the war.

NO TAX NEXT YEAR

But Student Council Favors
Compulsory Hatchet

There will be no activities tax next year, the Student Council decided at its meeting Tuesday. A tax of $4 providing medical privileges, and subscriptions to the Hatchet and Cherry Tree was proposed, but it was decided that without the athletic feature it was unwise to try it.

The Council went on record unanimously in favor of a compulsory subscription to the Hatchet for every student in the University next year, to be collected the same as tuition and library fee. The matter will be put before the University authorities at once.

The following members of the present Council were appointed by Dean Fraser to hold over and become members of the Council of next year: Miss Martha McGrew, Columbian College; Z. A. Biggs, Engineering; John H. Lyons, Medical; Rhessa M. Norris, Law; and Elmer Kayser, Teachers.

It was announced that the athletic deficit would probably be between $500 and $600 this year.

The following letters and numerals were awarded: Track: Letters, Kl-martin, Wingate, Morrison, Scott, M. H. Johnson, Capt. Hirsch, Manager James. Numerals, Cole, Boyd, Trundall, Assistant Manager Van Kirk. Girls' Basketball: Letters, Capt. Seibold, Misses Reb, Gardner, Fogarty, Bristow, Stimpson, Manager Davis. Numerals, Misses Nickles and Walter. Football: Numerals, Assistant Managers Shapiro and Prettyman.

LATEST FASHION HINT

Olive drab will be all the rage for spring suits this year and will have the regulation army cut. See the Recruiting Officer of the First Company, District of Columbia Coast Artillery for details.

The War

A state of war has been declared to exist with Germany, and activities of the nation are bent toward military preparedness.

The George Washington University
must do its share. With its Coast Artillery Company, many of its students trying for commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps, seventeen medical seniors being graduated early for the Navy, girls training in Red Cross classes, the work of the Intercollegiate Information Bureau, and hundreds of regular students and professors engaged in necessary war work for the government, it has already started its war work.

Every student, alumnus and professor must consider how he may best serve the country. Someone has said:
"In war so much time and energy is wasted by people trying to do things they can't."

Many of us may serve best by completing our studies that we may serve more efficiently.

Those of us who are between 18 and 25 may be drafted into the military service. Universal service seems to be the one logical, just, safe and sane method of raising an efficient army.

The Coast Artillery offers an opportunity for service and education, especially to those under 21, who can not yet become officers. Men students should at least talk with the recruiting officer.

Suspension of athletics was a patriotic step, and allows full devotion to war work.

The announcement by University officials that as much scholastic credit as possible will be given to those who leave early on government service, is laudable.

The girls in organizing Red Cross classes, cancelling many social functions, and planning to do war work show the right spirit.

All of us must and can aid.
"We must be prepared for anything," President Stockton has said.

High School Edition

The Hatchet is proud to be able to issue this edition telling the high school students of Washington about the University.

It is another step toward closer cooperation with the high schools. Already the University officials have planned courses with local high school graduates in view. The Players have co-operated with the athletic associations of the high schools in producing
"A Night Off."

The Hatchet believes that it is doing the high school student and the University a service in bringing them together. It will benefit both.

The Hatchet wishes to do all it can to aid any high school student in learning about the University.

It is making an attempt to reach them collectively thru this issue. If any care to call, they will be welcomed at the Hatchet Office, 2023 G street, personally.

One of the editorial or business staff, which is composed almost entirely of Washington high school graduates, will be glad to show them around the college and explain college activities.

EDITORIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Due to the unusually heavy pressure on the news columns caused by important news, combined with the High School edition, the columns
"With the Greeks" and "Departmental Notes" have been crowded out of this issue. They will be run as usual next week.

Percy On Various Things

Dear Joe, I've got a piece of news for you: The United States has declared war against Germany! I thought you would like to know, because it might help you to decide what to do during vacation. Any enlistment station will give you a list of "vacation opportunities." The Navy wants men and I think you could get in there, Joe. You would get a chance to steam by Kiel Canal and look at Germany's navy. Do you fear water like you used to? I remember the time when you would go for weeks without applying H₂O to your map.
Another opportunity, and the one which I think I will take, is the Coast Artillery. The one big advantage there is that you know nearly every man in the company. You simply wait for a periscope to come up the river and then you drop a shell on it.
After that the sub goes blind and seeks the bottom, and becomes a fish aquarium. You see it is quite simple.

And, Joe, I am most certain that this letter will be sent to the high schools of this city because the Hatchet censors all my mail and I can't keep it from them. We have some good high schools here. They are Technical, Central, Western, Eastern,
and Business. You know, Joe, G. W. has grown so, that all the Washington high school seniors are going there this fall. I used to go to Tech, and my brothers and sisters are scattered among the others so it will seem like a reunion next September 26.
I am not bragging, Joe, but it is said that the smartest college students come from the Washington high schools. I came from there, G. W. has nothing but smart students; so the Washington high school seniors are going to flock to the buff and blue this fall. This is a scoop, the Hatchet isn't wise to. PERCY.

ORPHAN FUND NOW $135.09

Limit of Fund, $146, Expected Next

The Hatchet fund for the aid of French war orphans has risen to $135-09 during the past week, Prof. Henning, treasurer, reports.

The limit set for the fund, $146, is expected to be reached in the next week, and the fund will be closed.

Students And Alumni
Get Together Tonight

All is in readiness for the big Alumni Reunion at Rauscher's tonight when the men and women graduates and the students of George Washington will gather together to get acquainted with each other and to honor
the University.

The affair will open at 8 o'clock with a reception to President and Mrs. Stockton. This will be followed by the annual business meeting at which the officers for the coming year will be elected and reports read.
Short addresses will be made by Admiral Stockton and Stephan E. Kramer, the retiring president of the alumni association.

Immediately following the business session a get-together buffet lunch will be served. The women's glee club will sing. Dancing will begin at 10 o'clock and last until 1.

Tickets, $1 each person, admitting to both luncheon and dance, may be obtained from Dean Hodgkins, or from the secretaries of the Law and Medical Schools.

Summer School Open
To High School Graduates

A summer school in the Department of Arts and Sciences, Medical School and Law School will again be conducted during the coming summer at the University.

Opening on June 25 and closing August 4, thirty-six courses will be offered, including both languages and science. Credit for about one semester's work will be given for each course.
Tuition will be charged at the same rate as during the winter session. The Medical and Law School duplicate part of their regular work during the summer.

"The Summer School affords an excellent opportunity for high school students to make up entrance credits, or do extra work that will enable them to finish their college courses sooner," said Dean William Carl Ruediger, director of the Summer School, who may be consulted at his office, 2023 G street.

NO MORE JAMS!

New Door to Be Cut Thru Prof. Crois-sant's Room

No more five o'clock jams at the front door of the A. & S. Building, 2023 G street, after next summer! A second door is to be cut thru Prof.
Croissant's office next to the library, during the summer recess. This will relieve congestion at the main door during rush hours.

Prof. Croissant's office will be moved into 2027 G street immediately after the Easter holidays. Prof. Kern and Mr. Doyle will have offices on the third floor of the same building.

WAR RESOLUTIONS PASSED; PLEDGE HELP TO NATION

Trustees, Faculties and Student Council Adopt Measures Before War Declaration

In quick succession on April 3, the day before war was declared, the Board of Trustees, the faculties of the various departments, and the Student Council adopted patriotic resolutions pledging the help of the University in the military work of the nation. Special meetings of the trustees and the faculty were called by President Stockton for that purpose.

The resolutions were:

"1. Whereas during the last two years our country and our citizens have suffered increasing humiliation and injuries without redress from the government and officials of Germany in violation of the tenets of international law, the ordinary rules of humanity, the comity of nations and the rights of our citizens upon the high seas, and,

"Whereas it is a primary and exclusive duty of a nation to protect its citizens and their lives and property afloat and ashore, therefore,

"Be it resolved that we call upon the Senators and Representatives in Congress assembled to take such action as will insure freedom to our citizens to go and come with safety upon the high seas and to carry on their lawful commerce.

"Be it also resolved that to further such objects and to protect our territory we ask that effective measures be taken to raise, equip and train our land and sea forces in sufficient number and in a manner that will be equal and just to all.

"Be it further resolved that we approve and endorse the message yesterday submitted to the Congress by the President of the United States, and pledge to him as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy our loyal support in the due execution of his office and in his endeavors to guard the interests and integrity of our country.

"2. Resolved that in the existing national emergency the President of the University is empowered to further in every practicable manner the movements of the students towards serving their country in effective and proper ways."

MANY STUDENT SOCIETIES

Every Activity Represented by Club or Organization

There are many student organizations at George Washington University.

In addition to the fraternities and sororities, the student may join the Engineering Society, Veterinary Medical Association, Columbian Debating Society, Enosinian Literary Society, Walter Clark Law Club, Architectural Club, Menorah Society, Woman's University Club, Men's Glee Club, Girls' Glee Club, the George Washington University Players, the Legal Aid Society, and the G. W. U. Art Society.

There are three honor societies: The Pyramid Honor Society, the Skull and Circle, for the men, and the Sphinx Honor Society, for the girls.

The local Pan-Hellenic Association, a member of the National Pan-Hellenic composed of delegates from all the women's national fraternities, is hostess at a Scholarship Luncheon, each spring and fall, to the two girls from each fraternity, and two non-fraternity girls from each class, making the highest scholarship average. This spring's scholarship luncheon will be held at the Raleigh, April 21, with Miss Fay Pierce, of Phi Mu, as toastmistress.

"OTHELLO" ABANDONED BECAUSE OF WAR

Prof. Croissant's Class to Give Play. "A Night Off" Party Planned—Red Cross Benefit Possible

"Othello," the spring play of the University Players, has been abandoned on account of the war, as practically all the male members of the cast are trying for Officers' Reserve Corps commissions. All activities of the Players will be suspended, except possibly entertainments by the girls for the American Red Cross.

The cast of "A Night Off," the University Players' success of Washington's Birthday, will be entertained by the Players at a party and a dance soon. Ernst Elkin, business manager of "A Night Off," is in charge of the arrangements.

Dramatic activities at the University have not been entirely given up, for Prof. Croissant's class in Humanities is planning to present a modern play in May. The play will be presented privately on the stage in the A. & S. Assembly Hall to an invited audience. The choice of the play lies between Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "The Son-in-Law of Mons. Poirier," by Ougier.

Men Eager To Join Officers' Reserve Corps

Nearly every unattached young man at the University is putting in application for the Officers' Reserve Corps, or considering the matter. President Stockton and every dean reports that he has written many letters of recommendation. Seventeen members of the Coast Artillery Company have taken examinations already.

Civilian military training camps, such as at Plattsburgh last year, have been cancelled in order that members of the Officers' Reserve Corps may be trained there.

"General Orders 32" circular, obtainable at the War Department, tells about the Corps.

Many other students have applied for commissions in the Regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

Engineering Talks At Student Assembly Monday

The first group of student talks at an Engineering College assembly will be delivered Monday evening at 6:45 o'clock in the A. & S. Assembly Hall.

Nathan Abramson, James A. Buchanan, David V. Stroop, and Edwin A. Schmitt will speak on the engineering work in which they are engaged. "Eats" will be served by the girls as at the first Engineering Society meeting under the new scheme. Nominations for officers next year will be made.

THEY BEAT H. C. OF L.

A number of George Washington students have discovered a sure way to put old H. C. of L. down for the count. They have enlisted in the First Company, District of Columbia Coast Artillery and now have their spring and summer suits, hats and shoes furnished by Uncle Sam and in addition will have pleasant board and lodging furnished by the same benevolent gentleman at some sea coast watering place for the summer. In addition they receive a generous spending allowance.

HIGH SCHOOL NUMBER DESCRIBES UNIVERSITY

G. W. U. is "City College of Washington"—Can Attend Late Afternoon Classes

and give the fruits of that experience to the students of the University in the late afternoon classes.

While late afternoon classes are not a novelty in colleges, the University affords exceptional opportunity to complete every course offered, with the exception of the medical course, by attending late afternoon lectures and classes beginning at 5 o'clock and doing laboratory work in the evening. Student Can Work And Still Get College Education

This enables the student who would otherwise have to give up the thought of a college education to earn his daily bread by working in a Government department during the day and to attend the late afternoon classes, thus taking about six years to complete the full-time four-year course.

To the student who can give his full time to college work, the regular courses at George Washington University offer a way to cut usual college expenses and help lift the burden from mother and father who too often have to practice close economy to send son or daughter to an out-of-town college.

Every department of the University is co-educational, although most of the girls take the A.B. course or the courses in Teachers College.

The high school student who attends George Washington University soon finds himself among old friends, for out of the 2,194 students registered this year, 1,015 of them claimed the District as their legal residence. Most of these, and many with legal residences elsewhere, are graduates of Washington high schools.

High School Diploma Admits to University

"The diploma of a Washington high school admits to George Washington University" is an advertising slogan that has appeared in all the high school magazines. The requirement for admission to the colleges is a four-year high school course, or its equivalent, amounting to fifteen units.

FIVE ATHLETIC TEAMS WEAR BUFF AND BLUE

Teams Make Splendid Record—War Stops Sports for Next Year—Football Resumed This Year

Altho the war has forced the suspension of all intercollegiate athletic contests scheduled for next year, the high school athlete who enters George Washington University will have an opportunity to compete in clean, non-partisan athletics as soon as the war is over.

"Clean athletics" has become a slogan at George Washington, no paid or "funktig" athletes being allowed to play on any teams. Every athlete has a fair chance.

Football Record

George Washington's first football team in ten years surprised even the local dopesters in its return to the football map, and covered itself with glory, breaking even in the seven games played by winning three and tying one with Ursinus. Gettysburg College, University of West Virginia, John Hopkins, Eastern College, Navy, Catholic University, Ursinus College, Western Maryland, Gallaudet College, and Georgetown were on next year's schedule.

The basketball team has just finished a most successful season and with the exception of the Georgetown game won every one of the seven home games played. In all, the team won almost fifty per cent of the games played. The schedule which was mapped out for next year included such institutions as University of Tennessee, Davis and Elkins, Catholic University, Georgetown, Gallaudet, West Point, Pennsylvania Military Academy, Columbia University and Yale.

Track Team Won Meet

This year for the first time in history, the George Washington track team won its own meet, winning 13 points in the open events and defeating the Carlele four in the relay. It was the best meet that the University has ever held, and had entries from the most prominent athletes in the country, representing the largest colleges.

The girls' basketball team, considered one of the best in the South, has won a majority of its games this year. Several trips, one as far as Boston, were taken.

Tennis matches with most of the nearby colleges were planned for this spring, but have been cancelled because of the war.

UNIVERSITY NEARLY HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Formerly Columbian University. Movement for College Started in 1817

It was one of the hopes of George Washington, from the founding of the capital in this city, that Congress might see fit to establish here a great national University. But Congress doubted its authority and failed to take action.

In 1817, just one hundred years ago, the Rev. Luther Rice, a missionary, was so impressed with the capital as a possible educational center that he started a movement for founding a college here. A charter was obtained in 1821 with the encouragement of President Monroe, establishing "The Columbian College in the District of Columbia." A lot on College Hill, afterward Columbia Heights, comprising 46 acres between Florida avenue and Columbia road, was purchased for $7,000. This amount was raised among the citizens of Washington, including John Quincy Adams, William H. Crawford and John C. Calhoun, members of President Monroe's cabinet, and thirty-two members of Congress.

The college was formally opened January 9, 1822, for theological and classical studies, with Rev. William Staughton, D. D., as President, and thirty-nine students in attendance. The first college building was completed in the same year. During the next five years departments of Medicine, Law, and Philosophy were added to the others.

At the first commencement of the College, held on December 15, 1824, three men were graduated. There were present at the exercises the President of the United States, the Secretaries of State, War, and Navy, leading members from both houses of Congress, and General LaFayette.

The growth of the new college was steady until the time of the Civil War. At the outbreak of the war, the attendance was greater than ever before, but most of the students soon left, to join either the Blue or the Gray. The college buildings were used for hospital purposes, altho the few students who remained received instruction in the class rooms.

After the war both students and instructors returned from the armies, and before many years Columbian College was again on the increase. In 1867 there were 26 instructors and 439 students.

In 1873 it was decided to sell the property on College Hill and move down town into the heart of the city. At the same time the name of the institution was changed to Columbian University.

The Corcoran Scientific School was established in 1884. Later it was merged with Columbian College to form the Department of Arts and Sciences. This was in 1904, when the name of the institution was changed to George Washington University.

8768 DEGREES CONFERRED
Many Prominent Graduates of the University

Since its founding in 1821, as Columbian College, George Washington University has conferred degrees on 7,145 persons. The total number of degrees conferred is 8,768.

Among the prominent graduates of the institution are Geo. B. Cortelyou, who held several cabinet positions; Frank H. Hitchcock, former Postmaster General; and George W. Guthrie, Minister to Japan, whose death occurred a few days ago.

RATED CLASS A
George Washington University is rated as a Class A institution by the University of Illinois, which some time ago made exhaustive investigations of all colleges and Universities, in order to establish standards for exchange of credits with other educational institutions.

G. W. U. NON-SECTARIAN

The George Washington University is the only large non-sectarian college in the city of Washington.

PUBLIC SCHOOL OFFICIALS RECOMMEND UNIVERSITY

Advise High School Students to Consider George Washington When Selecting a College

George Washington University has the highest approval of the highest officials of the Washington public schools, as well as hundreds of other Washingtonians, who are acquainted with its work.

At the request of the Hatchet, the following words of advice have been written for Washington High School seniors:

"Choose College With Brains, Courage and Ideals," Says Rev. Van Schaick To the Students of the Public Schools of Washington:

One of the big decisions in life is the choice of a college. It sometimes happens that "distance lends enchantment to the view." We should investigate opportunities in the institutions of the town where we live. There is no duty upon us to choose local institutions if better advantages are to be found elsewhere.

Personally, I believe in the George Washington University. I had rather work in an institution which has brains, and courage, and ideals, even if it has few imposing buildings, than in institutions strong simply on the material side. I ask our graduates to get acquainted with the George Washington University, meet some of the professors, and talk over the possibilities of work here in the most interesting city of the country.

JOHN VAN SCHAICK, JR.,
President Board of Education.

"G. W. U. Offers Splendid Opportunities," Says Assistant Superintendent

I have been associated with the University for many years, first as a student, and later as a member of the faculty.

I have had ample opportunity to investigate the thoroughness of the instruction, and the inspiration of contact with the members of the faculty. I am confident that a high school graduate looking forward to a college will find in George Washington University a splendid opportunity for obtaining training of the highest character.

A university of this class in our own city ought to commend itself highly to the attention of the graduates of our high schools who are definitely looking forward to college work, and should appeal as an opportunity to many students who might not be able to give themselves the advantages of a higher education if it meant leaving the environment of the home.

STEPHEN E. KRAMER,
Assistant Superintendent of Schools.

"School of Service and Opportunity," Says Allan Davis, of Business High

The George Washington University is a school of service and opportunity. It serves as a college to the young man who prefers a home institution, and draws the student from afar who desires to attend a national university with all the advantages which come from location at the Capital. To thousands of men whose collegiate training has been interrupted, it opens the door of opportunity for a complete general or technical education. Both in location and educational value it lies at the center of our city life.

ALLAN DAVIS,
Principal, Business High School.

Many Central Graduates at G. W. U.

Principal Wilson's Recommendation
The number of Central High School graduates who each year enter the George Washington University is proof that we believe in that institution. I have recommended it as a place in which to continue their studies, to scores of Central girls and boys.

EMORY M. WILSON,
Principal, Central High School.

University Works With High Schools

Says Dr. Small, of Eastern
The George Washington University makes a peculiar appeal to the graduates of the Washington high schools. In the first place, the University has co-ordinated its entrance requirements with the work of the high schools so that the matter of entering the University from our high schools is almost as simple as passing from the grade schools to the high schools.

In the second place, the local University is well adapted to a great body of earnest young men and women who cannot give full time to their college education, or who are obliged to earn their own living while they are securing college education. In the third place, the University, though poorly endowed, and lacking in the extensive and magnificent physical equipment of many colleges, is on the other hand fortunate in the character and ability of its teaching force. Its situation is such as to enable it to secure the services of a great many able specialists.

An earnest student will have opportunity and encouragement at the George Washington University. In different students are likely to be in different anywhere.

WILLARD S. SMALL,
Principal, Eastern High School.
